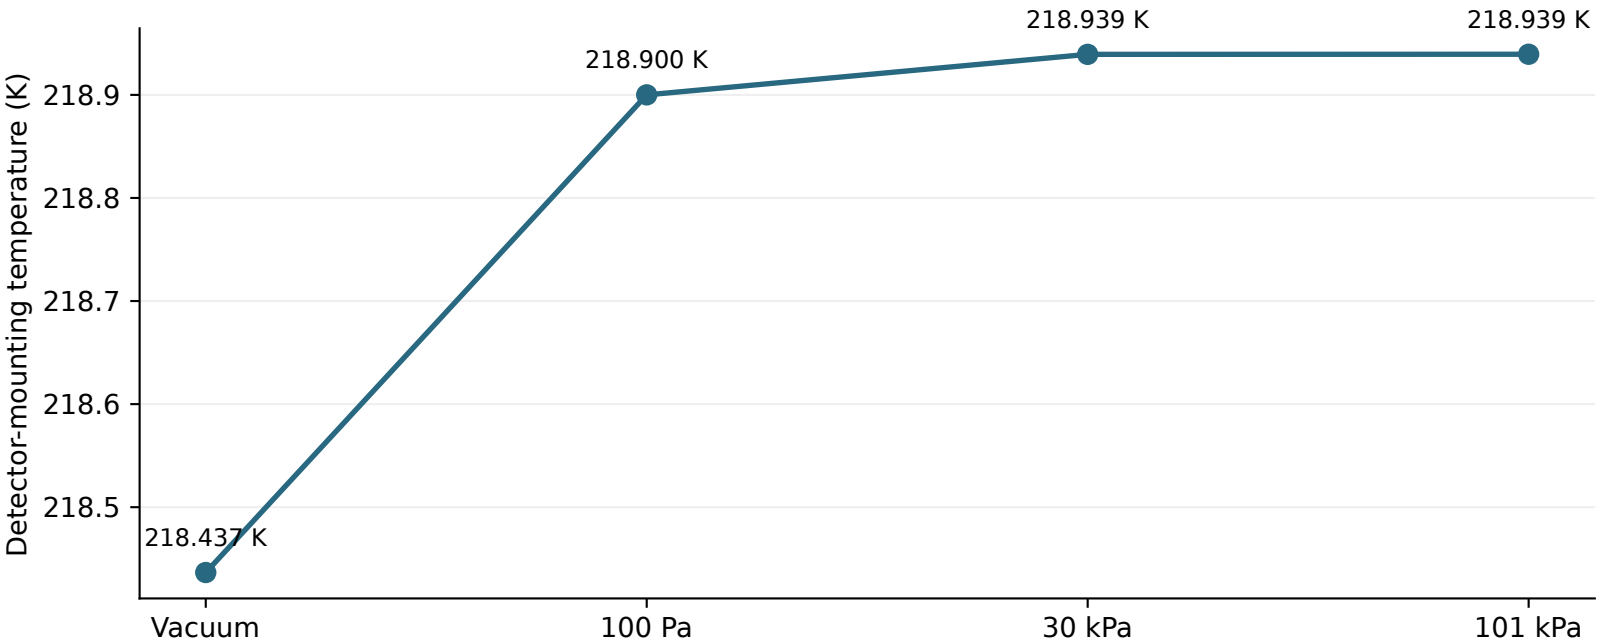
Krypton pressure response is strongly nonlinear

Fixed 0.400 A TEC; solid-body heat paths and detector thermal load unchanged



Even a nominal 100 Pa can yield substantial gas leakage with this assumed gap and accommodation model.
The shape is model-form dependent: actual TO cavity, inter-pellet gaps and line-of-sight paths unresolved.